OBITUARY.

Mrs. Ann Croft, wife of J. L. Croft, deceased, died suddenly of heart disease at her residence, No. 70 Washington street, this morning at half past one o'clock. The deceased had been in feeble health for some years, yet always cheerful and hopeful, until within a instant life's tender cord was parted and she was summoned to her earthly home to a peaceful and eternal rest.

Mrs. Croft's maiden name was Theakstone, she was born near York, England, August 21st, 1814. She came to Janesville with her late husband, June 19th, 1842, where she has resided since. At an early age she was confirmed in the church of England, and has been a member of Trinity church in this city since its organization.

Mrs. Croft possessed those noble qualities and Christian virtues of wife and mother that endeared her not only to her own family and friends, but to all who knew her.

She leaves three sons, Thomas T. and Joseph L. Croft, of this city, and James Croft, of Berlin, and two daughters, Lizette and Ella, all of whom have been ever most kind and devoted children to their mother, and her sudden demise falls upon them most heavily.

Due notice will be given of the time and place of the funeral.

WILLIAM COTT.

At his home on Hickory street, in the second ward, at eleven o'clock last night, Mr. William C. Cott, a native of the dark valley, The deceased was born in Shawville, Lower Canada, August 14th, 1798, and was therefore in his eighty-sixth year at the time of his death. He came to Janesville over forty years ago, and has resided in this city during that time. He leaves three daughters, Mrs. Thomas Tomlin, Misses Sophia and Kate Cott, all of this city, to mourn his death.

The funeral will take place at his late home on Hickory street, to-morrow morning, at nine o'clock, Rev. G. W. Lawrence conducting the service.

The Forest, Grandest, Largest, and Most Magnificent Show on Earth.

So indescribably grand, so superlatively large, and so extraordinarily large is the Forest, biggest of all big shows, which exhibits at Janesville on Wednesday, July 23rd, that words are inadequate to describe it, and fail in power to express fully the vastness and completeness of that amusement enterprise representing an ocean of wealth invested in a world of wonders. It must be seen to be understood and rightly appreciated. We call below an extract from a notice given the show by a late number of the Cincinnati News-Journal:

An amusement of which is a spectacle peculiarly applicable to the Falls of the great Niagara, which began at union dance ball park yesterday. The parade, which was a sort of parade to the forest of entertainment to follow, at the time of the parade, took place along the line of march. Promptly at five o'clock the parade took place. It seemed of almost interminable length, and was a fine indication of the immensity of the collection of animals and birds which make up the menagerie features of the great show. Cages after cages, until the full advertised number (fifty) passed. Many handsome tableaux cars, several bands of music, cavalcades, elephants and camels in harness, increased the parade in both size and beauty. In short, the parade bore on its face the stamp of greatness. The general verdict of the people was that it was the best spectacular display of the sort ever seen upon the streets of Cincinnati. The animals in the menagerie represented nearly, if not quite, every family known to zoology. The circus could not be otherwise than great when the list of star artists which make up the company is not equalled by any on the face of the globe. One name alone is worth the price of admission. There is not, and never will be, a rider like Jim Robinson. He is to the circus business what Pat is to opera—unapproachable. He is a real rider, worth the name of a rider. He can do what no other living rider can equal. No one should miss him.

In addition to the wondrous James, there was Adelaide Corbion, whose grace and style as a rider, north of single and double, does not live, and whose games in themselves are startling in their richness. Then Willie Sells on his quarter of equines is the king of the males. Maggie Oline is certainly without a peer on the ring, and Jerry Bell and Grandman are not so very far behind Robinson in their one-horse act. In addition there are astonishing leapers, bicycle riders, tumblers, trapezists, and a whole that is not to be equaled by any other show in the country.

In the Book of Martyrs we read of the agonies of men who suffered for their faith, and in our every-day experience we see the ordeals of the brave of our time, which it is possible for the human frame to endure. Rev. Wm. P. Corbin, D.D., of New Haven, Conn., was laid up for two months with inflammation of the lungs, suffering most excruciating torture. Atholpore cured him, and he now believes it to be infallible.

Many people at strawberries as though they thought they grow in the back and of a grocery. A stroll through the fruit farm of Mr. Wm. Wilcox, on Milton avenue, would satisfy the most incredulous that a large percentage of this luscious fruit enjoyed by Janesville people during the past month, was the product of Mr. Wilcox's careful culture. From five to twelve hundred quarts per day have found their way to our market from these grounds, in spite of the late frost which destroyed at least half the crop. Mr. Wilcox is an intelligent cultivator of small fruits, and is reaping the benefit of scientific knowledge and skilled labor. His crop of red raspberries is just now coming forward, and promises an abundant yield. His fruits are handled by a number of our grocerymen, and may always be relied upon as fresh and equal to any in the market.

Moontide Excursion and Dance.

The grandest event of the season will occur Wednesday evening, July 5th, at Pope's Springs. The steamer Excursion will make regular trips at 7, 8, and 9 o'clock. At the grounds will be given a dance, to which the public is cordially invited. Refreshments will be served by the popular caterer Elton Smith. Music by the Arion band. Let everybody come and have a good time. Tickets for the round trip, including dancing $1.00 a couple. Those not desiring to dance $2.00 each for round trip.

Provent sickness by taking occasional olynx of Emory's Little Atomic Pills a wonderful appetizer, an absolute cure for Biliousness—15 cents.

THE DEMOCRACY.

Assembled in National Convention in Chicago.

Governor Hubbard, of Texas, Elected Temporary Chairman.

Tilden's Name Greeted with Tremendous Cheering.

The Convention Bulletin.

Chicago, July 8th.—In the convention hall, Mr. Torrey, of California, created a sensation by shouting for Tharman.

Chairman Burman called the convention to order shortly after twelve o'clock. Prayer by Rev. Marquis, of Illinois. The call was read.

Governor Hubbard, of Texas, was named as temporary chairman, and Price, of Boston, as temporary secretary.

Chicago, July 8th.—Hubbard's stirring address loudly cheered when Tilden and Hendricks were mentioned.

Grady, of New York, offered amendment to rule of Smalley, of Vermont; that state be polled when challenged, and individual votes recorded.

Fellows, of New York, spoke against amendment and for unit rule, and the fight became fierce.

Grady answered amid excitement. Interruption, cheers and hisses. This disputed question likely to consume the day.

CHICAGO, July 8.—The convention is assembling. There is an immense attendance. It is said that Kelly will try to have the unit rule set aside by the convention; failing in which Tammany may withdraw.

Prominent free traders say if the platform is not unambiguously for free trade, a minority report will be made to the convention.

When Thurman entered the hall he was received with cheers, the delegates rising to their feet.

CHICAGO, July 8.—The convention was called to order by Chairman Burman.

Governor Hubbard, upon taking his seat as temporary chairman, was received with loud cheers.

When Governor Hubbard mentioned Tilden's name, the delegates and audience rose to their feet. Immense and continued cheers.

Hubbard hoped action would be such that it would attract independent and disaffected republicans.

Resolution that states cannot change votes during roll call presented.

Grady, of New York, presented amendment that chairman of delegation shall when poll is called and give expression to individual vote. Fellows of New York speaking against amendment; said the convention had no right to change instructions of the state of New York.

Fellows read instructions from the New York state convention, showing that the delegates were bound to vote as a unit with the wishes of the majority. The speech was cheered and hissed.

An amendment to the amendment was offered that no state shall change its vote till after the total vote has been announced.

Grady has taken the floor to speak in opposition.

Grady said that there was great danger that through political machinery the honest vote of New York would be stifled. Sensation cheers and hisses.

Grady said newspapers had been bought to print at the head of the columns, "New York's 72 votes were outlawed" which was untrue. If the democratic party wanted votes of the people he represented it must give voice to their appeal.

Grady closed with an eloquent appeal that all New York should have the right to be heard in the convention.

Do little, of Wisconsin, took the floor, and says that a state has no right in its convention to say how it shall be represented; he favored leaving the matter with New York.

The motion to refer Grady's amendment to the convention, at the organization, was lost.

Judge Cochrane, of New York, now speaking, favors Grady's amendment and says unless carried, the voice of a large number of people in New York, will be stifled.

Cochrane said, the question as to whom New York should vote for, did not come up in the state convention; the reason no protest was made.

General Chace, of California, in speaking, favors Grady's amendment.

Powers, of Michigan, speaking in favor of the Grady amendment, said it was a great democratic principle that the humblest district should be represented.

Chatter Harrison, mayor of Chicago, took the floor and was received with cheers. He said the convention had nothing to do with state institutions, and that every delegate had a right to be heard.

Kelly has taken the floor mid great cheering.

Kelly has thanked the convention for the liberal views expressed and said the action of the state left him with no alternative but to appeal to the convention. He hoped that the counties interested would not be disfranchised.

Fellows has taken the floor again and
